RE: Public comment concerning Postmaster DeJoy

I am deeply troubled by the further damage that Mr. DeJoy is attempting to perpetrate against the USPS.

DeJoy's alleged financial conflicts of interest and potential campaign finance violations are extremely concerning.

As Postmaster General, DeJoy cut overtime hours for Postal employees, removed sorting machines from distribution centers, and directed the removal of hundreds, if not thousands, of blue collection boxes in urban areas.

DeJoy plans to do more damage to the integrity and efficacy of the USPS.

The United States Postal Service is a vital service in this country. It is not a political pawn to be used by those in power for their own benefit.

Blocking DeJoy's shenanigans is imperative in order to protect the Postal Service's reputation and mission.
